The Asian Century is the projected 21st-century dominance of Asian politics and culture, assuming certain demographic and economic trends persist. The concept of Asian Century parallels the characterization of the 19th century as Britain's Imperial Century, and the 20th century as the American Century. A 2011 study by the Asian Development Bank found that an additional 3 billion Asians could enjoy living standards similar to those in Europe today, and the region could account for over half of global of Agricultural Growth in Japan: Its Relevance to Asian Development (Tokyo, 1975). 6 The beginning years for the periods of comparison for Japan, Taiwan, and Korea roughly correspond to the completion of the cadastral surveys which laid a foundation for modern agricultural development. 7 Only male workers were counted in the agricultural labor force, primarily for the sake of international data comparability. 9 Hayami and associates, A Century of Agricultural Growth, pp. 170-79. 10 Hayami and Ruttan, Agricultural Development, p. 208. 11 Crisostomo, Cristina M., Meyers, Richard H., Paris, Tirso M., Duff, Bart, and Barker, Randolph, "The New Rice Technology and Labor Absorption in Philippine Agriculture," Malayan Economic Review, 16 (1971), 117-58.
