Attendance

More than two unexcused absences during the course of the semester will adversely affect your grade. After more than four absences or non-physical class participation (for any reason) you must withdraw or fail. If you are anticipating an extended absence due to illness or injury, contact the faculty immediately. If illness or injury does prevent you from participating in class on a given day, and you are physically able, you are strongly encouraged to observe class. You are allowed no more than four consecutive class observations after which you must withdraw or fail. It is the student's responsibility to contact the professor personally if any of these situations occur. Keep the lines of communications open; discuss any conflicts you may have with the professor before taking any drastic measures.

PROTOCOL

If any student has a particular concern with any of the faculty, the student should go directly to the party with whom there is a concern. If, after doing so the grievance has not been resolved, the student may then go to the director, Robin Gerchman. If the situation continues to be unresolved, the student should then contact the chair of the department, Roxanne Amico.

Class Behavior

Appropriate behavior is implicit in the Cedar Crest Honor Code. Such behavior is defined and guided by complete protection for the rights of all students and faculty to a courteous, respectful environment. That environment is free from distractions such as late arrivals, early departures, inappropriate conversations and any other behaviors that might disrupt instruction and/or compromise students' access to their education.
