Anne & Scope
JITED is a peer-reviewed journal, focusing on international economics, economic development and, more importantly, the interface between trade and development. The links between trade and development economics are critical at a time when both globalisation and economic growth are forcing governments to re-examine international economic policies. All submissions will be considered on the basis of: (a) the quality of the research; (b) the strength of the argument; and (c) the contribution to the literature.

References published in the same year, add lower case letters after the date to distinguish them, as in ‘Smith (1980a, 1980b)’. Always use the minimum number of figures in pages, dates, etc., e.g. 22–4, 105–6 (but 112–13 for ‘teen’ numbers) and 1968–9.

Footnotes should be used only where necessary to avoid interrupting the continuity of the text. They should be numbered consecutively using superscript Arabic numerals. They should appear at the end of the main text, immediately before the list of references.

Notices for Contributors
All submissions should be made online at the journal of International Trade & Economic Development Manuscript Central site (link to http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com). New users should first create an account. Once a user is logged onto the site submissions should be made via the Author Centre.

Authors should prepare and upload two versions of their manuscript. One should be a complete text, while in the second all document identification identifying the author should be removed from files to allow them to be sent anonymously to referees. When submitting files authors will have the ability to define the non-identified version as ‘File not for review’. When submitting your manuscript, please upload all of your original source files.

Annexes to the submitted manuscript will be taken to imply that they present original, unpublished work not made available for publication elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article have been given to the publishers, including reprint, photographic reproductions, microfilm, or any other formats of a similar nature and translations.

1. The submission should include a cover page showing the author’s name, the department where the work was done, an address for correspondence, if different, telephone numbers, email address and any acknowledgements.

2. Submissions should be in English, typed in double spacing with wide margins, one side only of the paper, preferably of A4 size. The title, but not the author’s name, should appear on the first page of the manuscript. Furthermore, to assist objective, the author should avoid any reference to him or herself which would enable identification by referees. Articles should normally be as concise as possible. The difficulty and expense involved in making amendments at the page proof stage may not be justified in articles which already vary in length from 10 to 40 pages.

3. Tables and figures should not be inserted in the pages of the manuscript but should be set on separate sheets. They should be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals with a descriptive caption. The desired position in the text for each table and figure should be indicated in the margin of the manuscript. Permission to reproduce copyright material must be obtained by the author before submission and any acknowledgements should be included in the typescript or captions as appropriate.

4. Use the Chicago Manual of Style for referencing which gives the name of the author and the date of publication in a key to the full bibliographical details which are set out in the list of references. When the author’s name is mentioned in the text, the date is inserted in parentheses immediately after the name, as in ‘Smith (1970)’. When a less direct reference is made to one or more authors, both name and date are bracketed, with the references separated by a comma, as in: ‘selected authors have noted this trend (Smith 1970, Cobb 1968, Dobbs 1973)’. When the reference is to a work of deal or multiple authorship, too many abbreviations of the abbreviated form as in ‘Smith and Dobbs (1978)’ or Jones et al. (1970) if an author has two references published in the same year, add lower case letters after the date to distinguish them, as in Smith (1980a, 1980b)’. Always use the minimum number of figures in page numbers, dates, etc., e.g. 22–4, 105–6 (but 112–13 for ‘teen’ numbers) and 1968–9.

Footnotes should be used only where necessary to avoid interrupting the continuity of the text. They should be numbered consecutively using superscript Arabic numerals. They should appear at the end of the main text, immediately before the list of references.

6. Submissions should include a reference list, in alphabetical order, at the end of the article. The content and format should conform to the following examples.

On acceptance for publication, authors will be requested to provide a copy of their manuscript in print accordance with the conventions listed in the preceding notes. If the final version of the paper is not submitted in accordance with these conventions then publication may be delayed by the need to return manuscripts to authors for necessary revisions. Authors should note that, following acceptance for publication, they will be required to provide not only a hard copy of the final version, but also a copy on a virus-free disk, preferably in MS-Word format, or as a LATEX file. If possible, authors sending a LATEX file should also supply a PostScript version. Authors should also be prepared to complete a Publishing Agreement form assigning copyright to the Publisher.

Page proofs will be sent for correction to a first-named author, unless otherwise indicated, at the address indicated on the cover letter. Please make all corrections on the proofs and return them to the publisher. When returning page proofs, please note the date requested.

In a condition of publication that authors assign copyright or license the publication rights in their articles, including abstracts, to Taylor & Francis. This enables us to ensure full copyright protection and to disseminate the article, and of course the journal, to the widest possible readership in print and electronic formats as appropriate. Authors retain many rights under the Taylor & Francis rights policies, which can be found at www.informaworld.com/authors/journals/copyright-positions. Authors are themselves responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyright material from other sources.

Corresponding authors will receive free online access to their article through our website (www.tandf.co.uk/journals) and a complimentary copy of the issue containing their article upon delivery. Taylor & Francis authors are encouraged to share our open access journals through RightStart® when proofs are returned or alternatively on our journals website. The book offers advanced and contemporary readings in international trade and economic development, constructed on various fundamental topics that define the realm of this subject. The book brings together many of the issues that are considered staple reading for a course in trade and development, but was previously unavailable in a comprehensive manner. It offers systematic coverage of the relevant and state of the art research in trade and development. This includes detailed analysis of important sub-topics, such as, trade and the labour market, trade and public economics, topics in the theoretical models of economic development is trade in goods and factor inputs. The canonical trade models studied in this course are able to rationalize international linkages between developed and developing countries based on technology or endowment differences. Countries specialize in particular industries where they produce with lower opportunity costs. Another pillar of economic development is trade in goods. Besides growth and trade, the other face of globalization is international migration, which constitutes the subject of the last chapter of the course. Indeed, migration movements represent a recurrent pattern from developing to developed countries.
