Campus Watch

Duties of a Catholic Pope

AVE MARIA LAW SCHOOL, Aug. 23 — The school and the Sunday School Visitor Foundation will sponsor a conference on the duties of the Catholic pope with respect to the Church’s teachings and with a view toward its development. The conference will be held June 15 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Speakers will include Robert Sirico, the president of the Eppenstein Institute of Law and Religion, and Dr. James Federlin, director of the Center for Justice and Peace at Ave Maria University.

Free Ride Less Free

NEW YORK POST, Aug. 10 — The school said it will charge students $1.30 for each book that it loses, a move that is expected to add $24,000 to the school’s bottom line in the next five years.

The book cost is part of the university’s efforts to reduce the number of lost books. The university said it has already lost $12,000 worth of books this year.

First Things

FACULTY ACADEMY OF THEOLOGY AND RELIGION, Aug. 21 — The school and the Sunday School Visitor Foundation will host a conference on the duties of the Catholic pope with respect to the Church’s teachings and with a view toward its development. The conference will be held June 15 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Speakers will include Robert Sirico, the president of the Eppenstein Institute of Law and Religion, and Dr. James Federlin, director of the Center for Justice and Peace at Ave Maria University.

Freedom for Flies

NEW YORK POST, Aug. 10 — The school is considering granting tenure to a professor who teaches a course on the legal rights of flies.

The professor, who has been teaching the course for 10 years, said he has been denied tenure because of the controversy surrounding the issue.

Global Catholic Register

NATIONAL CATHOLIC REGISTER September 5 -11, 2004

Duties of a Catholic Pope

AVE MARIA LAW SCHOOL, Aug. 23 — The school and the Sunday School Visitor Foundation will sponsor a conference on the duties of the Catholic pope with respect to the Church’s teachings and with a view toward its development. The conference will be held June 15 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Speakers will include Robert Sirico, the president of the Eppenstein Institute of Law and Religion, and Dr. James Federlin, director of the Center for Justice and Peace at Ave Maria University.

Free Ride Less Free

NEW YORK POST, Aug. 10 — The school said it will charge students $1.30 for each book that it loses, a move that is expected to add $24,000 to the school’s bottom line in the next five years.

The book cost is part of the university’s efforts to reduce the number of lost books. The university said it has already lost $12,000 worth of books this year.

First Things

FACULTY ACADEMY OF THEOLOGY AND RELIGION, Aug. 21 — The school and the Sunday School Visitor Foundation will host a conference on the duties of the Catholic pope with respect to the Church’s teachings and with a view toward its development. The conference will be held June 15 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Speakers will include Robert Sirico, the president of the Eppenstein Institute of Law and Religion, and Dr. James Federlin, director of the Center for Justice and Peace at Ave Maria University.

Freedom for Flies

NEW YORK POST, Aug. 10 — The school is considering granting tenure to a professor who teaches a course on the legal rights of flies.

The professor, who has been teaching the course for 10 years, said he has been denied tenure because of the controversy surrounding the issue.

Global Catholic Register

NATIONAL CATHOLIC REGISTER September 5 -11, 2004

Duties of a Catholic Pope

AVE MARIA LAW SCHOOL, Aug. 23 — The school and the Sunday School Visitor Foundation will sponsor a conference on the duties of the Catholic pope with respect to the Church’s teachings and with a view toward its development. The conference will be held June 15 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Speakers will include Robert Sirico, the president of the Eppenstein Institute of Law and Religion, and Dr. James Federlin, director of the Center for Justice and Peace at Ave Maria University.
In the Harry Potter world magic is science, the same as physics or chemistry. Not sure about you, but I don't know about any scientist that prays to the god of Math before conducting an experiment (although I knew few students who were becoming suddenly VERY religious a few minutes before exam ;) ). In other words, wizards (especially modern ones) don't believe that there is some mystical force responsible for magic. Can they be religious in general? And now look at Voldemort: this guy has a god complex - can you imagine him bending his knees to someone stronger than him? I don't think so. There are no invented religions in Harry Potter because that would make it a different kind of story. It's not high/epic fantasy like Lord of the Rings, set in an imaginary medieval-style world. Looking for God in Harry Potter. The Pro-Potter Christian Response. Harry Potter, as a Christian Story? Argument #1: The Potter books illustrate a Christian worldview and fill our human need for stories about the fulfillment to be found in Christ. Christians, of all people, should be celebrating the Harry Potter books and the attendant Potter-mania! My thesis is essentially this: As images of God designed for life in Christ, all humans naturally resonate with stories that reflect the greatest story ever told - the story of God who became man. The Harry Potter novels, the best selling books in publishing history, touch our hearts because they contain themes, imagery and engaging stories that echo the Great Story we are wired to receive and respond to. Potter magic as Christian magic? John Granger. For the latest edition of this book that covers all 7 Harry Potter novels, see "How Harry Cast His Spell." Granger helps readers understand the classic literary devices used in the Potter books and contends that Rowling is writing in the tradition of Tolkien and C. S. Lewis. Are they just a good read, or do